

INSTRUCTIONS:

Write a letter to your future husband or wife. Share with them anything you want: Qualities you hope they possess, personal dreams or goals of yours, that you're praying for him or her, why you're waiting for him or her, etc.

NOTE 1:

Your letter should be handwritten (in pen so it doesn't fade or smudge over time) and at least a ½ page in length. Your letter will not be read by anyone but you. On the day this assignment is due you will simply be asked to hold up your letter so that I can see that you wrote at least a ½ page of something to your future spouse.

*NOTE 2:

A few former OLG students said they would be okay with me using typed versions of their Dear Future Spouse letters as examples for future students. You may wish to look at these examples for more help or ideas on what to write.

(Examples are in the pickup folder and on my website)

When you are finished with your letter, I highly encourage you to take a minute (or 2!) to really, truly PRAY for your future husband or wife.

(It is my hope and prayer that you commit yourself to praying at least a short prayer for your future spouse every day for the rest of your life!)
