Top 35 Saints Names Rarely Picked for Confirmation

I want video of the Bishop who confirms any person who takes these Saint names for Confirmation. In making this list, I do not intend to ridicule the Saints or those they intercede for.

No names are made up.

Top 35 Saints Names Rarely Picked for Confirmation

35 - Saint Abban of Magheranoidhe
-My tongue hurts from trying to pronounce Mag2#*ydrand.

34 - Blessed Rudolph Aquaviva
-Isn't a bottled water named after him? No that was Saint Flavian of Acquapendente.

33 - Saint Exuperance
-She was very enthusiastic.

32 - Saint Fabius Claudius Gordianus Fulgentius
-I wonder if his parents spoke Latin?

31 - Saint Zynovij Kovalyk
-The last Saint in the alphabet and one of the hardest to pronounce.

30 - Saint Gall
-He was brazenly bold.

29 - Saint Aceptismas
-He accepts the Mass.

28 - Saint Lancelot.
-No. Not THAT Lancelot.

27 - Saint Vimin of Holywood

26 - Saint Austin (AKA - St. Augustine of Canterbury)
- When will there be a St. College Station?

25 - Saint Artaxus of Syrmium
- Any Saint name that sounds like "tax us" probably isn't going to be awfully popular.

24 - Saint Christina the Astonishing
- Sounds more like a master of illusion show.

23 - Saint Januarius
- Followed by Februarius, then Marcharius, etc.

22 - Saint Alphege the Bald
- I like this guy.

21 - Saint Mamas
- One of a kind. This is the only Mamas that is not a woman.

20 - Saint Bairfhion
- Huh huh. He said "barf".

19 - Saint Teath
- Patron against cavities?

18 - Saint Tron
- The video game was better than the movie.

17 - Saint Kenny
- Only his mother called him "Kenneth"

16 - Saint John the Great Sinner
- I can relate to this Saint...

15 - Saint Conon
- That was close. I thought it was "Conan".

14 - Saint Bru
- Gives a whole new meaning to the phrase "What's up Bru?"

13 - Saint Olive of Palermo
- Her mother was a Kalamata.

12 - Saint Vicelin, Apostle of Holstein
- Is this the patron of fresh milk?

11 - Saint Dora
- She discipled Boots and evangelized Swiper.

10 - Saint Rollox
- Always on time.

9 - Saint Nabor
- Nothing is known about Nabor. Of course, most don't know their neighbor.

8 - Saint Gwynnin
- Can I buy a vowel?

7 - Blessed Andrea Carlo Ferrari
His once vice was driving very fast in fancy cars.

6 - Saint Olav the Thick
- Just don't call him that.

5 - Our Lady of Knock
- Who's there?

4 - Saint Pancratius
- I got over it with some strong antibiotics.

3 - Saint Peter Chanel
- Always smelled good.

2 - Saint Guy
- Patron of dudes?

1 - Saint Chilling of Aubigny
- Ah yeah. Chillin' with Chilling.

What? I had at least one girl every year I was a parish director who wanted Christina the Astonishing - who is reputed to have escaped from locked rooms by flying out of windows. There were at least as many of them as boys who wanted Joseph of Cupertino, the other "flying saint"!

St Januarius - Patron saint of volcanoes and those living near them. He was to be put to death by kiln. He survived, and so did those that they sent in to see if he was dead yet.

Don't forget St. Maximus.

Commander of the Armies of the North and general of the Felix Legions. Rumored to look like Russell Crowe.

Also, I thought St. Dora was an explorer and St. Nabor was more poularly know as Gomer?

It's funny you mentioned St. Peter Chanel which is my home parish, and numerous confirmation students pick St. Peter Chanel.

Also funny how within 5 miles of St. Peter Chanel, there's a St. Pancratius parish.

My confirmation Saint was St. Dionysia. Father David definitely stumbled over her name a bit.

Saint Abban of Magheranoidhe? Easy peasy! Pronounced Ma-her-ann-owie.

Saint Bairfhion: Huh huh. He said "barf". No, he didn't, it's pronounced Barr-yun.

Our Lady of Knock. Who's there? Someone who knows that it's really pronounced "Kuhn-nuck"! The real name is Cnoc Mhuire, the hill of Our Lady. Interesting but odd fact Máire is the Irish for Mary but Muire is the name given, in the Irish language, to Our Blessed Lady and her alone.
